25 Years Of Excellence

Planning

Throughout our lives we've been advised to get an education and to plan for the future. Our high school years have taught us to excel in many different areas of focus. As we contemplate plans for the future, we begin to realize the responsibilities of growing up.

Setting goals is the first step in planning excellence. Some goals are short-range, such as passing a Chemistry test or getting a part in the school play, while getting accepted into medical school or running for a public office would be examples of long-range goals.

Sometimes our goals and values seem to conflict because of the relative amounts of time we are able to devote to them. But with careful planning, tomorrow's fulfillment need not be accomplished at the expense of today's responsibilities.

25 Years Of Excellence

Striving

Nothing is more invigorating than working hard to fulfill a noble and worthwhile purpose. Whether it be in academics, sports, service, or any other area, it is necessary to deal with the challenges that face us in everyday life.

Each of us has our own area of interest in which we strive to improve. For example, each year our football team spends numerous hours practicing and developing their skills with the desire to honor their school with the title of State Champions.

Although at times we may get discouraged as we encounter difficulties, endurance and an honest desire to succeed must be present. The success of our pursuit is dependent upon diligence, a serious effort, and a positive attitude in all aspects of life.

25 Years Of Excellence

Achieving

It has been said that success is its own reward, and nothing succeeds like success.

There is a certain feeling of accomplishment and personal satisfaction that comes with knowing that you have done your best.

Bringing home a praiseworthy report card, running the fastest mile, typing 60 words a minute, or scoring a touchdown elevate our self-esteem. Positive experiences such as these provide motivation to keep us reaching and planning for the future.

Our high school years are full of opportunities to set and reach goals and achieve excellence. If we use them wisely, these three years can prepare us for the benefits and challenges ahead.

High School was opened in September 1909 and was dedicated in October of the same year. This year was the twenty-fifth anniversary of the school's opening. In 1958, however, the school was closed temporarily during the integration crisis in Little Rock.

Hall was named for Robert Cleveland Hall, who was known as the "Father of the School Board." He served as superintendent of the Little Rock School District from 1909 to 1941 and during this time exemplified the highest goals in education.

25 Years Of Excellence

Maintaining

Many of the jobs we will have as adults currently do not exist. Mechanization continues to replace manual labor at both the skilled and unskilled levels. Changes in technology require a life-long pursuit of excellence so that we do not become obsolete.

The courses that we take in high school are intended to better equip and prepare us for various careers. Whether we plan to enter a college or trade school, the current work force or tomorrow we will be expected to continue learning new skills and to improve our current ones.

Just as the high jumper raises the bar higher than he has ever jumped before, it isn't "kick me!" we should look for new ways to achieve our goals in maintaining excellence. It is what our teachers strive to do for us as we progress through our three years at Hill High.

The Genesis Of Excellence

Hall High School and the city of Little Rock both celebrated anniversaries during the 1981-82 school year.

Hall first opened in the fall of 1957, closed in 1958 due to the integration problems in Little Rock, reopened in September of 1959 and has continued open since then.

Throughout these 25 years, Hall has grown in size, enrollment, and in academic quality.

Little Rock celebrated its sesquicentennial during the year 1981. In 1722 French explorers named two nearby rocks in Arkansas La Petit Roche and La Grande Roche, which means the Little Rock and the Big Rock. The site was permanently settled in 1820 and was chosen as the Territorial capital the following year. Little Rock was incorporated as a town in 1831 and as a city in 1835. Little Rock became the state capital in 1836.

The Capitol building in Little Rock is said to be one of the most beautiful in America. Groundbreaking ceremonies for the Capitol were held July 4, 1899, the cornerstone was laid Thanksgiving Day, 1900, and the building was completed 16 years later in 1915.

During these 150 years, Little Rock has progressed immensely. Many things have changed while others have remained the same.

Modernization has taken over tradition in many cases. For example, the Marion Hotel which was built in 1907 and served as a landmark in downtown Little Rock for many years, was imploded along with the Grady Manning Hotel on February 17, 1980. The demolition made way for the construction of a new convention center projected to be completed in 1983.

Little Rock's 150 years of progress have definitely made Hall's 25 years of progress possible.

STUDENT LIFE

Summer Fun Keeps Kids Active

Summer is always a favorite time of the year and last summer was no exception. This was due to activities happening throughout the vacation time.

Some students spent their summer traveling and went to such far-away places as California and Florida. Others attended various summer camps and retreats, a few of which were offered by the Young Life Association. Some students also participated in Girls' or Boys' State, or attended the Arkansas Governor's School.

Several students from Hall participated in competitive sports going as far as New York to try for the Junior Olympic World Team in Canoeing and Hawaii to try for the World Team in Gymnastics.

Students continued to enjoy their favorite pastimes — going water-skiing, hiking, canoeing, swimming or just lounging by the pool.

Temperatures were relatively cool compared to the blistering heat of the previous summer. The average temperature was 80 degrees, however, it fluctuated into the high 90's at times.

The football team held their summer practice two weeks before school started along with the cheerleader and Cheer-o-kee practices in the morning. The yearbook and newspaper staffs also had their workshops at this time.

Enrollment Figures Show Decline

Enrollment figures this year showed a decrease in the number of students attending Hall. During the 1980-81 school year there were 1,223 students compared to the 1,087 for 1981-82.

The sophomore class was the largest with 378 students. The juniors were close behind with 369 followed by the seniors with 340.

Registration for school was held August 17-19. During registration students received their class schedules, locker assignments, busing information and other materials needed to start the new year. This was the third year the computers have done the schedules and a few difficulties arose, but were straightened out during the first few weeks of school.

Mrs. Mildred Bracey, attendance secretary, did not feel the computer's mistakes were the major problems of registration.

"I wish all students would come to register during registration instead of waiting until school begins," Mrs. Bracey said.

Orientation was held August 27. Its goal was to give sophomores and new students an introduction to Hall. They were greeted by Principal Weldon Faulk, and by Student Body President Russ McDonough. The cheerleaders and Cheer-o-kees also participated in the program. Student Council members served as guides.

Sophomore Mangaye McWilliams said, "Orientation was very helpful in introducing me to Hall."

Council Officers Attend Meetings

Student Council officers met each week during lunch and discussed plans for annual Student Council events.

Russ McDonough, student body president, presided over the meetings which were held each Wednesday apart from regular council meetings. The officers discussed such major events as Homecoming, Spirit Week, the annual Turkey Trot Dance, and Tri-Council Dances.

The Tri-Council consisted of Student Council officers from Central, Parkview, and Hall. Every year the Tri-Council holds meetings to plan events between the schools and to keep up the school spirit, discussing such important issues as vandalism between school rivals.

Jeff McNeil, Student Council vice-president, was also president of the Inter-Club Council. This council was comprised of other club presidents around the school.

Each month, Russ, Jeff, and the other council officers and class representatives met along with Principal Weldon K. Faulk at the Principal's Cabinet meetings. At these meetings, ideas and suggested changes in the school and Student Council were debated.

One important issue resolved at the Cabinet meetings concerned changing the newly installed assigned seating policy in the auditorium back to the original policy of letting students sit where they chose. Of course the sophomores were still in the balcony, the juniors in the back of the auditorium, and the seniors were in the front.

Council secretary was Deana Ashworth and the treasurer was Mark Lavey. Class representatives were Linda Blackburn, senior; Felicia Webster, junior; and Vicki Shaw, sophomore. Mr. Charles Thompson was the adviser to this year's Student Council.

"This is the life," Russ McDonough, student body president, treasurer, Mr. Weldon K. Faulk, Principal.

"I have to laugh!" Jeff McNeil, vice president, thinks about his long dream of becoming assistant principal.

School Spirit Shown By Students

School spirit rose to its highest this year. Students showed spirit by supporting their events in different paper assemblies.

Students displayed spirit by wearing school colors. There was no assortment of spirit items sold by the Student Council throughout the year. This included hats, buttons, pins, shirts, and a large red white cow boy hat.

The week preceding the Parkview game was Spirit Week. There were different spirit raising activities and different themes each day. On the first day the theme was the 1950s. Students dressed as punk rockers.

On the second day the theme was the 1950s. Students wore their cowboy hats and hats. On the third day the theme was the 1950s. Students wore their cowboy hats and hats. On the fourth day the theme was the 1950s. Students wore their cowboy hats and hats. On the fifth day the theme was the 1950s. Students wore their cowboy hats and hats.

The cheerleaders and Cheerleaders promoted spirit at both games and assemblies. The Warriors were well supported by fans attending games and assemblies and by pre-game activities, including rallies and bonfires.

Throughout the year students engaged in competitive spirit towards other schools and displayed pride for their own school.

Stick 'em up! First cheerleader... Warriors... cheering during game.

Dances Popular Among Students

Owen Newton left's top score. Let's Get Physical and Earth Wind & Fire's Let's Groove ranked the Warriors' dance hits several times during the school year celebrating Warrior victories.

Students enjoyed the popular line dancers such as The G-Unit, New Wave, Skating Rink, Jordane, and the Freak. Awards were given to the best dancing couples. Music was played by KHAL with student disc jockeys in charge except for Homecoming.

Student Council sponsored several dances. The school opened with a Back to School dance following the Mass game where newcomers to Hall were welcomed. The traditional Homecoming Dance was after the Northeast game. The Homecoming queen and court reigned over the dance. Music was by the band P. Diddy and dress was semi-formal.

Centra's and Hall's councils gave the annual Turkey Trot dance the Wednesday night prior to Turkey Day. Other popular dances were the Tr. Council Toys for Tots Christmas dance where the funds were donated to the Little Rock chapter of Toys for Tots and the Valentine TWRP dance held at Centra after the Warriors defeated Centra Tigers.

The Warrior basketball team also sponsored several dances after their victories. Hall's Senior Class and the cheerleaders each sponsored one dance.

Disco soul and rock ranked high at these dances while New Wave music proved to be not so popular among Hall's students this year.

First Snow Brings Arctic Temps

Little Rock's first snow fell on a Sunday morning January 10, but blew away as quickly as it came. The snow, accompanied by record-breaking temperatures of zero to 4 below, was part of the coldest air mass to hit the U.S. in a decade.

Two days later and only a week after the Christmas holidays, a veritable blizzard blew its way into Arkansas bringing with it more arctic temperatures.

Little Rock and other parts of the state got as much as seven inches of the fluffy white stuff, closing schools for four days.

The month of January was the 12th coldest in Little Rock's history since the National Weather Service started keeping records in 1879. The average low temperature was 25.1 degrees, 7.4 degrees colder than normal. The month's coldest temperature was one below zero on January 11, tying the record set in 1886 for the same date.

Semester tests had to be rescheduled because of the ice and snow for Thursday, Friday and Monday, January 21, 22 and 23.

More major snow storms entered the state in February, and schools were closed again. Classes were dismissed several times when light mists caused hazardous driving conditions on many Little Rock streets.

While schools were dismissed several students spent their time in the snow having snow fights, building snowmen, sledding, and four-wheeling.

Snow or no, the winter of '82 will be remembered as one of the coldest in years for Arkansas as well as the rest of the country.

Students Juggle Jobs And School

Juggling school work and a job was routine for some students.

The rising rate of inflation and the cost of living increase made it necessary for some students to get jobs. They earned spending money and money for college.

The closing of Hall's campus posed a problem for some of the others, while others who obtained work permits could leave campus early to go to work.

Senior J. E. McCay who worked at Sportstop Inc. said, "I got my job to help pay for college and for the upkeep of my car, and so I could earn extra spending money."

Hall's students became gas station attendants, animal keepers, ice cream scoopers, clerks, and clothes store workers and cooks. Many students required their own jobs while others obtained needed jobs through one of Hall's work programs.

Current Fads Enhance Wardrobe

Current fashions and fads were worn daily by Hall students during the past year. Clothes were not chosen to match, but to complement.

For the casual look, girls often wore button-down-the-back sweaters and shirts, knickers, large leaf earrings, and metallic shoes. Socks were selected to complement skirts and pedal pushers. Jordache and Gloria Vanderbilt jeans headed the list for girls. High heels were replaced with low heels for the more casual and intelligent look.

Guys sported khaki pants, and V-neck pull-over sweaters worn with button-down shirts. They were often seen wearing Yves Saint Laurent and Polo jeans.

Calvin Kleins, Izods, penny loafers, Poms, and Topsiders were seen on girls as well as guys during the year. Button-down polos and oxfords were worn by some every day, while other students sported Fox brands and basic cotton shirts. Blue jeans were as popular as ever during the year. Lee's and Levis were worn by both girls and guys. Boots which usually were worn during the winter were brought out of the closets during the fall.

Pleated coats were among the winter fashions. For the fourth year, down jackets and vests were popular.

Clothes containing the colors orange and white were most enjoyed by fashion-conscious Warriors. Everyone was seen wearing the two popular colors at least once a week!

Hall's own shoe store. Various shoe styles such as these were seen on many students during the year.

Hobbies Popular Among Students

Hobby time for students had to be planned around school work and activities.

Students who showed an interest in such activities as swimming, skating, horseback riding and four-wheeling driving.

Art, designing, going, playing musical instruments, singing and playing board games were some of the popular hobbies year round.

James River Cante provided skates and spare for the outgoing disco skater.

Electronic games were popular with the guys and they could be found every day at Arlington's Cante in the University Mall, Taco Kiosk and at all pizza places and grocery stores.

Favorites were photography, football and frisbee since there was available space for everyone to participate in the fun at lunch and after school.

While some students practiced their hobbies in public places, others relaxed in the privacy of their own homes while listening or watching their favorite style of music whether it was disco, punk rock or soul.

"My hobby is playing and beating anybody who is ready to lose a game of backgammon," Lisa Nooner senior said.

Spring Fever Hits Hall Students

After one of the coldest winters in Arkansas history students welcomed the arrival of spring.

An increase in absenteeism was quite common when 'spring fever' hit Hall.

Students spent sunny spring days in such activities as flying kites, playing frisbee, golf, visiting Oaklawn, fishing, hiking, sailing, taking trips to Pinnacle Mt., and riding horses. Regardless of the type of activity chosen, the outdoors was one thing they had in common.

School related activities in the spring included cheerleader and Cheer-o-kee tryouts, student body elections, and speech tournaments.

This year was the fourth year for the Student Council to sponsor the spring carnival. It was held after school in April.

Some students spent beautiful spring days practicing for the school play. This year, Harlequins put on a musical rendition of "Our Town".

Four different athletic seasons began in spring: track and field, swimming, tennis, and golf.

For seniors, spring meant graduation from high school. Along with this came anticipation of the prom to be held at Teamsters' Hall and the graduation ceremony to be held at Barton Coliseum.

Hall Students Win Many Honors

As they have in the past Hall students distinguished themselves this year by winning a variety of honors in local, state and national competitions.

These honors included superior first place and championship awards in contests at state conventions at tournaments and at meets. Categories in which students competed were music, academics, athletics, writing and art.

Special recognition for students who won awards was given at the annual Honors Night ceremony held in May. Certificates, plaques, scholarships, medals and trophies presented at the ceremony brought honor to the school, as well as the recipients.

Each award reflected dedication, hard work and superior achievement in some field.

21 Attend Boys' and Girls' State

Twenty-one delegates from Hillsboro Boys' and Girls' State this summer. Four boys went to Boys' State at Henderson State University and seven attended Girls' State at Wake Forest University.

Boys' State delegates were John S. Henderson, David Briggs, Brian Hays, John McNeil, Leslie O'Neal, Scott Tanner, David Wheeler and Chuck Workman. Boys' State was sponsored by the American Legion. Delegates had to be nominated by the chapter and voted on by the group. The eight boys who had the most votes attended.

Girls' State delegates were Catherine Brink, Martha Ferguson, Anita Heil, Fern, Hilary, Linda Lecky, Kathy Moore, Norma Norman, Lisa Robinson, B. Werber and Jane Zentgraf. Girls' State was sponsored by the Senior Auxiliary. Delegates were selected the same way as Boys' State. Representatives were Binky Martin and Carol Foster attended the session independently.

Boys' and Girls' State featured guest speakers including former Governor Bill Clinton and Governor Frank White. They talked about elections, parties, the local state, national level and other political matters.

Both programs were highlighted by visits to the Capitol where representatives observed officials at work. They also learned about the roles of legislators by drawing up bills and laws.

John McNeil, a delegate to Boys' State, said he had a fun and memorable experience. "I learned a lot about government and elections," he said.

ORGANIZATIONS

Three Tri-Council Dances Given

In an effort to give students and promote a better relationship between schools, the Student Council participated in the organization of three Tri-Council dances with Central and Parkview.

The Turkey Trot, TWRP dance and Spring dance were Tri-Council activities. The Student Council also sponsored various victory dances, the Homecoming dance and the Christmas dance. All the proceeds from the latter were given to Toys for Tots.

The Council began the year by sponsoring September Orientation.

During the homecoming season the Council sold spirit ribbons, t-shirts and hats to promote school spirit.

All Homecoming activities were organized by the Student Council. In addition to the dance the Council sponsored the Court elections and assembly and the parade.

In October the movie Young Frankenstein was shown to raise funds for Council activities. In February the Council sponsored Hall's annual TWRP week.

A new committee was set up in conjunction with the Art Club to beautify the cafeteria and gym. Art Club members painted murals and the Student Council funded the project.

In the spring the Fourth Annual Carnival was held on the practice field. A live band provided the music and clubs set up booths where they sponsored different contests and sales to raise money.

Student Council officers were Russ McDonough, president; Jeff McNew, vice-president; Mark Livey, treasurer; and Deana Asmworth, secretary.

Mr. Charles Thompson was the sponsor.

War Whoop Is Published Weekly

For the third consecutive year, the War Whoop published a weekly paper.

Even staff members headed by editor Andy Winston produced one of the few weekly high school newspapers in the nation. This was accomplished despite the fact that Hall's Journalism Department was the only one in the District which did not have phototypesetting equipment. The printing was done by students at Metropolitan Vocational Technical Education Center.

All of the money needed to publish the paper was raised by the staff who sold advertising during the summer and the school year to businesses and interested citizens in the community. Advertising revenues made it possible for the newspaper to be distributed free of charge to all students, faculty, advertisers, and patrons.

During the summer staff members participated in a workshop which prepared the students for meeting the demanding weekly deadlines and taught them more about writing for a newspaper.

Staff members and their sponsor Mrs. Tom Christie attended the Arkansas Chapter of the Society of Professional Journalists Santa Delta Chi High School Journalism Workshop in December at the University of Arkansas at Little Rock. Professional newspaper and television personalities lectured.

In the spring the staff attended the annual Arkansas High School Press Association Convention in Hot Springs. Once again Superior awards in such categories as news story, editorial feature, advertisement and column were won by members of the War Whoop Staff.

Speakers Talk To French Club

Speakers from various foreign countries spoke at some of the French Club meetings this year. Mrs. Yvette McCarty from Belgium, Maria Mendes from Portugal, Ragna Amundsdottir from Iceland, and Pierre Larsen from Denmark, shared stories about their lives abroad.

Meetings were held monthly. Tap and French food was served at some of these meetings. In the spring, a potluck dinner was held as an alternative to the traditional meeting at the French restaurant.

Eight members attended the regional language tournament last fall. UALR Jenn Hoskyn and Maria Mendes received the highest rating given in poem recitation at this tournament.

Spanish Club Attends 3 Contests

Spanish Club members attended three different contests at various times during the year.

At the first they participated in the contest held at I.A.P. in April. They received the trophy for the first prize in the contest.

During the year the club members were Mary Vanev, former student at H.I., and Mrs. Cynthia Barry, previous Spanish teacher. At the end of the year the Spanish members had a banquet and a party.

The club's organization was great this year. Mrs. Adams and Mrs. Short were the co-sponsors. Karen Rorke, secretary said.

Other officers besides Karen were Mrs. Adams, president; Mary Ann Miller, vice-president; Lisa Holman, treasurer; Vicki Mitchell, program chairman; Rae Warren, publicity chairman; and Christine Lacey, historian.

Mrs. Cynthia Barry was the Spanish Club sponsor. While she was on maternity leave during December and January, Mrs. LiVon Yape, former H.I. Spanish teacher, substituted for her and served as the club sponsor.

Officers discuss the year's work and the future plans for the club.

Drives Are Held By Red Cross

His chapter of the Red Cross sponsored two blood drives this school year. The first drive was held in November and the second was held in the spring. Blood donations were very successful.

Many students studied hard in the Royal Goss. The number of students who were awarded a degree had increased at least fivefold and in weight it also increased. Around the parts of the road were several small shops and food stores.

The 1945 Homecoming tour was the first place in the nation. The tour was made under the first of Margaret Glasgow. It featured a number of the 24 participants. The tour was given by a Red Cross Member.

Members Volunteer In Primaries

Members of the Young Democrats participated in various projects and activities throughout the year. In February, club members studied and debated the record for Senator Ben Allen. In April, club members were busy working as volunteers in the primaries for the state Democratic Committee.

"I really did volunteer and work in the primary. Marilyn, our president said, 'It helped us understand how a political committee functions.'"

Young Democrats were also involved in the annual Homecoming Parade and the Spring Carnival, sponsored by Student Council. For Homecoming, the Warriors fired the Air Force's Chargers and the Young Democrats' band was entitled "Flash the Chargers" complete with its own marching band show.

Former politicians and the former Governor Bill Clinton, former United States Representative Jim Gray Tucker, and State Treasurer John Hynes were speakers at the club's monthly meetings.

Mrs. Carol Burnhouse and Mrs. Carolyn Teeter sponsored the club's 57 members.

Marilyn Lucas was president, Paul Lizenny vice president, Liz Olsen and Sam Goodman, secretary and treasurer respectively.

FBLA Attends Many Workshops

FBLA participants attended a variety of workshops and conferences throughout the year. At the National FBLA Leadership Conference in Chicago, club president Jo Webber received an award on behalf of the club for being the Gold Seal Chapter Winner.

Other workshops and conferences included an FBLA Officers Training Workshop in June, a state workshop in Northeast, a Southern Region workshop in Baton Rouge, La., an FBLA city leadership conference in February, a District V leadership conference in March, a State conference in April, and a National Leadership conference held in Indianapolis in July.

The year's activities began at an installation meeting in May 1981 at the Western Sizzlin.

A candy sale was held in the fall to fund club projects and activities.

At Thanksgiving, the FBLA again sponsored the Thanksgiving baskets for Youth Home Inc. and the Turkey-Day assembly.

Hall's FBLA chapter participated in National FBLA Week in February. Members organized activities which included a speech by Arkansas First Lady Gay White.

For the second year, the FBLA sponsored a tour of the business department for Career and Life Planning classes in spring.

Officers were Jo Webber, president; Felicia Webster, vice-president; Sherry Williamson, secretary; Theresa Jones, treasurer; Cathy Crume, reporter; Angela Payne, historian; and Kim Files, parliamentarian.

Math and Sciences Join Forces

Mr. Alpha Theta, the math club, and the Science Club joined forces this year to become the Math Science Club.

The main function of the Math Science Club was to show its members practical applications of the math and science material they were learning in school.

To accomplish this goal, various speakers were selected by the program committee to come to Hill and speak during the club meetings. One speaker, Dr. David Peterson, from the University of Central Arkansas, explained about sine wave graphs that develop when music is analyzed through sound equipment.

A contest was held by the Math Science Club to see who could write a program for the PET computer which would find the first 250 prime numbers. Mark Botner, a junior, won the contest for the fastest program.

Mr. Mike Norton, one of the club's sponsors, said that by combining the two groups more students were attracted to the club, and previous attendance records were eliminated.

Membership into the club was open to all students of Hill High School. The large number of members showed tremendous enthusiasm and functioned well as a group. Evidence of this unity shone through during Homecoming Week when the Math Science Club won first place in the float contest.

Hank Bates was chosen as president. Other club officers included Anita Hen, vice president, Carol Foster, secretary, and Laura Lecky, treasurer.

Maybe some day, Margaret Roy, will view projects completed by math/science students.

Your attention, please! Committee members discuss plans for the club's homecoming parade float.

Hall Band Keeps Busy Schedule

Hall's band not only performed during halftime at football games but also kept a hectic schedule playing special concerts and attending contests.

During football season, the band practiced Monday through Friday preparing for halftime performances. The entire membership of the band participated in these performances. Drum Major Keith Donley led the band while it was on the field.

Mr. Merle Boyce, director, directed the band in classroom practice and in concerts and performances.

After football season, Mr. Boyce held tryouts for band members to determine the division of first, second, and stage bands.

The first band served as the concert band. They went to regional contests to compete in playing and marching with other regional bands. They also presented several concerts for the public.

This was the first year for Hall to have a stage band. They presented a program as part of the Christmas concert, given by the band and choir for the student body.

Band members competed in January in All-Region Tryouts. This was an opportunity for each band member to show his or her own skill and talent. Members who made the All-Region First Band were eligible to tryout for All-State Band.

Mr. Randy Erwin served as assistant band director.

Industrial Arts Club Enters Fair

Each spring the Industrial Arts Club competes with other industrial arts clubs throughout Arkansas in the state annual Industrial Arts Fair. This year Harris chapter members entered approximately 25 projects in the fair which was held in Pine Bluff.

They competed in two categories — mechanical drawing and engineering drafting. Mr. Jim Mathews, club sponsor, helped each student individually with his project for the fair.

Jeff McNeel won first place in the state mechanical drawing contest and Mark Grimes won first place in the state engineering drafting contest, both with perfect scores. Mark Boswell and Fred Blackwell won second place awards in the fair.

"Our students did pretty well this year. We had four winners," said Mr. Mathews.

Art Club Brings Beauty To Hall

This year's Art Club affected Hall and its appearance in a positive way. This was remarkable since there hadn't been an active Art Club since 1980.

Beautifying the school and promoting school spirit were the main objectives adopted by the club for the year. Art Club members took their free time to work on painting assignments around the school.

At Christmas, members painted holiday scenes on the windows and trophy cases around the office area.

We wanted the school to look less boring for the holidays, Kristi White, club vice president, said. Painting the windows certainly made a difference.

To promote school spirit, the Art Club also painted a "Warriors Are Superstars" mural above the lockers by the Student Council room to replace the banner which had been up all year.

Other Art Club activities included examining different art classes at an all-day field trip to Henderson State University, visiting a commercial artist's studio, visiting Channel 7, and attending the club Christmas party.

In addition to Kristi, Art Club officers for the year were Kent Potts, president, and Karen Wilson, secretary.

Mrs. Sarah Muler and Miss Gail King served as the Art Club sponsors for this year.

"It's certainly not your best!" Anna Green painted on a window while Karen Peters watched.

Michael Angelo, Mike Kresch, and the other students were also painting.

VICA Participates In Conference

In October the High School VICA officers participated in the state leadership conference held in Hot Springs. Three members of Hills Club won awards.

Tim Davidson won first place in club business. Scott Ruston won second place in club business and Steve Leeks won third place in opening and closing ceremonies. Other members who attended the event at Hot Springs and the categories in which they competed were Kenneth Walton Speech, Regina Hampton Opening and Closing Session, Sheree Walters and Michael Brasser in Parliamentary Procedure.

Other fall activities also included filling Thanksgiving and Christmas baskets for the needy. Later in the year VICA members planned and held an appreciation banquet for their employers who had given the students opportunities to work and learn on-the-job skills in various Little Rock businesses.

In VICA students are working together putting ideas to work to better themselves, the school community and nation. Mrs. Marylee R. Watson, sponsor of ICT VICA I and II said, "VICA offers co-curricular activities that make education and training more meaningful."

Mr. Pat Aydelott also sponsored an ICT-VICA I club.

HOE Club Helps In Blood Drive

Health Occupations Education club (HOE) members helped the Red Cross Club with the blood drive. Since the members worked in nursing homes and other health related atmospheres, they understood the need for a successful one. They also helped with blood pressure screenings at the Mall.

In the regular club meetings HOE members and officers discussed plans for activities and projects. In January, the club sold candy as a fund-raising project. The club also sponsored the HOE teacher of the year. This was an event in which an outstanding teacher was nominated at the end of the year.

HOE Club officers were Lavarin Lewis, president; Cathy Butler, vice-president; Emily Heard, secretary; and Rhonda Regnier, parliamentarian. Mrs. Charlotte Yates was the club sponsor.

Since most of us are very busy with our health occupation, we really enjoy having a club for relaxing, Rhonda Regnier said.

DECA Sells Candy For Project

Distributive Education Clubs of America (DECA) sold Christmas tree ornaments and M&M's as fund-raising projects to support their other club activities.

In December DECA participated in the annual Toys for Tots Drive in conjunction with the Manne Corps. Members collected toys and distributed them to the children of needy families.

A requirement of membership in the club was that the members be enrolled in Distributive Education class. Officers and members attended some specific leadership conferences. On October 8 a state-wide conference was held at University of Central Arkansas in Conway, and at the end of February a two-day state career development conference was held which most DECA members attended.

Officers of the club were Ken Stocker, president; Pat Hays, vice-president; Carla Bloodworth, secretary; Kirsten Bryles, treasurer; Beverly Coleman, reporter; and John Scott, historian. Mrs. Brenda Curtis served as sponsor for the club.

CCECA Active Throughout Year

Members of the Career Education Chapter - Arkansas CCECA attended the State Leadership Training Conference at the campus of the University of Central Arkansas (UCA) in Conway. The conference held in October was a workshop for the club's officers.

Other activities which kept the CCECA busy this year included making Thanksgiving baskets to present to the schools in 1971, Thanksgiving assembly in November, competing at different job skills areas at the State CCECA Contest, planning club fund raisers prior to the Christmas holidays, and holding a book bazaar in March.

CCECA is a vocational club team which is an opportunity for community involvement, also promotes good citizenship and leadership abilities and self development.

The club provides students with various work experience that will lead to future career skills. Mr. Emanuel Brooks, club sponsor said.

This year's CCECA club officers were Larry Sherman, president; Dannah Henry, vice president; Lisa Williams, secretary; Linda Sims, treasurer; Kempner Jones, parliamentarian; and Ann Mayernick, club reporter.

The CCECA sponsors, in addition to Mr. Brooks, were Mrs. Erna Hishberry, Miss Gerald Thessing, and Miss Lydia Kild.

Y-Teens Play In Football Game

Winter Y-Teens invited their football players to meet the town's elite Y-Teens in the city wide Powder Puff football tournament in November. The girls played football this weekend in the game for this event.

Best in victory is preparation the H.Y. Y-Teens lost to the Tigers of Powder Puff's football team.

Members of the boys football team, besides the girls, Charles included in Wilson, Charles Johnson, Todd Atkins and Wes Williams. In the end, several boys prior cheering for the girls and cheered for the Y-Teens.

In September, a membership swimming party was held at Sylvia Schwander's house. A garage sale was held in December at Carolyn Landman's house to raise money for future events.

H.Y. Y-Teens joined other Y-Teens from high schools and other nights throughout Little Rock and North Little Rock for city wide events. In addition to Powder Puff football, these included the Mother Daughter Tea, State Hawkins Dance, Father Daughter Night, Christmas Branch, World Mixer and Super Teens.

A typing session was held in September to prepare for city wide events. Members of H.Y. Y-Teens served as chairpersons. Sandra Sherrod was chairman of Powder Puff, Sylvia Schwander was co-chairman of Super Teens, Fara Westbrook was co-chairman of World Mixer and Dana Wright was co-chairman of Father Daughter Night.

H.Y. officers attended an officer training session at the YWCA in August. This year's officers were Sandra Sherrod, president, Laura Hallford, vice president, Sylvia Schwander, treasurer, Carolyn Landman, secretary, Fara Westbrook, social chairman, Kim Brewer, Inter Club Council, and Dana Wright, chaplain.

Mrs. Marcia Lecky sponsored the Y-Teens for the 1981-82 year.

Kristie Kleinhekse, and Annah Green served as city officers.

Y Teens
 The Y-Teens are a group of young women who are active in the community. They are involved in many different activities and are dedicated to making a difference. The group is made up of young women from all over the area and they all share a common goal of helping others and improving the world around them. They are a very active and dedicated group and they are proud to be part of the Y-Teens organization.

AFS Involved With State Affairs

Throughout the school year Hall's American Field Service (AFS) participated in several city-wide meetings. These included the Christmas party picnic and spaghetti suppers.

Hall's exchange students this year were Ragheidur Armansdottir from Iceland, Warren Chamberlain from Australia, Pierre Larsen from Denmark and Maria Mendes from Portugal. The exchange students lived with Hall students and their families.

Ragheidur Armansdottir lived with the Word family, while Warren Chamberlain resided with Wes McHan. Pierre Larsen resided with Mary Ann and Laura Miller, and Maria Mendes resided with Robert Haywood and his parents.

The exchange students participated in the Interstate Exchange which allowed them to visit a different state for a week to live with another family.

The state-wide AFS convention was held in Little Rock this year. Little Rock families were able to house visiting AFS students for a weekend. During the convention students held group discussions, viewed filmstrips and listened to speakers. The convention ended with a dinner and a dance.

Hall's AFS chapter took time out for a weekend canoeing trip on the Buffalo River this fall. Other events sponsored by the AFS were a float in the annual Homecoming parade and dances and a booth in the Student Council Carnival.

The officers were Mary Ann Miller, president; Pam McQueen, vice president; Karen Bonner, secretary; and Susan Henson, treasurer. Sponsor was Mr. Doug Picher.

New Club Started For St. Jude

Hall students started a new club this year for those interested in helping the children of Saint Jude Research Hospital in Memphis, Tennessee. Hall's Chapter was founded by Mr. Sam Kent.

Members participated in a city-wide fund raising event to raise money for the hospital. They collected aluminum cans and newspapers. In conjunction with other chapters they helped with the National St. Jude telethon which aired in the spring.

The members collected aluminum cans for a second time throughout the month of April. Proceeds went to finance a picnic for club members.

In the spring members distributed the familiar St. Jude Research Hospital cans to every class in the building for donations.

"The members of the club feel there's a need for aiding the children of St. Jude Hospital that's not being met by the public," Tina Bokerstitt, president, said.

Serving with Tina were Jane Kipian, vice president, and Barbara Millard, secretary. The other club sponsors were Miss Mary K. Sanders and Mr. Doug Pilcher.

The plan is Tina Bokerstitt and Barbara Millard plan activities for Friends of St. Jude.

Three Smaller Clubs Remain Active

Paperback Swap

Three clubs which were small in size remained active this year and contributed service to the school. They were the Inter Club Council, Intervention Team, and Paperback Swap.

The Inter Club Council was made up of the vice presidents of all the school's clubs. Jeff McNeil was the president and Miss Mary K. Sanders was the sponsor.

The Intervention Team conducted the peer tutoring program again this year. In the program, students with B averages or above helped other students who were having difficulty with courses. Membership in the club consisted of students and faculty who worked on ways to improve student-faculty relationships. Sponsors were Miss Mary K. Sanders, Mrs. Louise B. Peterson, Mrs. Charlene Carpenter, and Miss Lucy Towbin.

The Paperback Swap Club was formed for students who enjoyed reading. Students met once a month to swap paperback books. Lisa Parkwe was the president and Mrs. Gail Strange and Mrs. Sue Maddison were the sponsors.

Pep Club Full of Warrior Spirit

Pep Club members attended football and basketball games to assist the cheerleaders and Cheer-okees in creating spirit. Members made banners for games and pep assemblies.

Club members had to have 100 points accumulated at the end of the year in order to be eligible to try out for cheerleader, Cheer-okee or squad. Demerits were given for misconduct as well as for tardiness to games and meetings.

Merits were given for making banners and five points were given for attendance at games. Ten points were given for every out-of-town game attended and also for every conference game attended at Barton Coliseum.

Records concerning points, absences, and eligibility were kept by the president and vice president of the Pep Club. At each game members were given a certain time to be present so that they could be taken before the game started.

Pep Club members and officers got new uniforms. Officers wore white skirts and sweaters, and members wore orange skirts and white sweaters.

Officers for the 1981-82 Pep Club were Sandy Baskin, president; Jackie Wise, vice-president; Beverly Cole, secretary; Toni Lane, sergeant at arms; and Kim Brown, Inter Club Council representative. Mrs. Carolyn Dokes was the sponsor.

Cheer-o-kee Club Remains Active

Cheer-o-kee Club members are active in many projects in the secret pass. Members consisted of cheerleaders, cheer-kee, and the school.

Each member of the Cheer-o-kee Club had a red line, paint, wooden teepees, and the players' numbers. Every football in a basket by player received a teepee to his play and his name, locker, or football. Players were decorated by the members during football season.

Before the football season, the cheerleaders were decorated with a cheer-o-kee and a cheer-o-kee.

Members of the Cheer-o-kee Club were Mary Ann Miller, president; Jane Zachary, vice president; Betty Martin, secretary; and in 1961, Robinson, treasurer.

Warriors Meet In August For Two-A-Day Practices

Early Monday morning August 17th the Warrior football team assembled in the locker room for the first two-a-day practice of the year.

The morning practice ran from 8 a.m. to 11 a.m. There was an hour long break at 2 p.m. and then the team reassembled on the field for the evening practice, which lasted until 6 p.m.

Except for the first two days, two-a-day practices were in full pads. This was a drastic change from the year before, but the heat wasn't quite as bad, so the Warriors suffered through.

Practices consisted of exercises at the Calaway's Corner going over offense and defense and finally the dreaded running.

The coaches and players seemed to be pleased with the workouts and both were anxious for the season opener with Mills.

Football practice for the 1981-82 school year actually started early in the spring with weight lifting in the locker room. As the weather got warmer practice moved outside where the team ran over plays and prepared for summer practice.

What are you doing? — Mike Petersen watches his B-team practice against Central.

B-Team Benefits Through Learning And Experience

Even though the B-team didn't have the most successful year in terms of wins and losses, the players learned a great deal from the experience. The B-team's experience in the B-team, not to mention the game experience, proved to be very useful to the players as they move up toward the varsity ranks.

In B-team games, the players got a chance to work on the techniques of different positions, and then the coaches decided where the players were best suited to play. After playing for the B-team, the Warriors are ready in all seasons to take their place on the varsity team.

Coach Mike Peterson, who coached the B-team, said the team was very good.

Warriors Winning Streak Begins With The Trojans

For the first time in their history, the Warriors have won their first game of the season. The team, which had lost its first three games, defeated the Trojans 14-10 in a hard-fought battle. The victory was a surprise to many, as the Trojans were considered the favorites. The Warriors' defense was the key to their success, holding the Trojans to a field goal and two touchdowns. The Warriors' offense, led by quarterback John Smith, managed to score on three plays. The game was a testament to the team's resilience and determination.

The Warriors' victory was a morale booster for the team and their fans. The team's coach, Coach Miller, praised the players for their effort and teamwork. He said, "This is a great start to our season. We have a lot of work to do, but we are confident we can win the championship." The Warriors' fans were also excited, and many attended the game. The game was a great success for the Warriors, and it was a turning point in their season.

The first thing I noticed when I stepped out of the car was the cold, crisp air. It felt like a fresh blanket after a long, hot summer. I took a deep breath, savoring the scent of pine and the distant sound of water. The road ahead was winding, leading me into a world of mystery and discovery. I knew this was my chance to see the world from a different perspective, to experience the beauty of nature in all its glory. I was ready for whatever came my way.

1. The first thing I noticed when I stepped out of the plane was the fresh air. It was a relief after the stuffy cabin. The pilot greeted me with a friendly smile and a warm handshake. He was a local, and his accent was perfect. We had a short flight, but it felt like an adventure. The views from the sky were breathtaking. I saw the coastline from above, and it was like a painting. The water was a deep blue, and the land was a mix of green and brown. I was lucky to have a window seat. I could see everything clearly. The pilot was a professional, and he kept me informed throughout the flight. We landed smoothly, and the ground crew was waiting for me. They helped me with my luggage and escorted me to the terminal. The staff was friendly and efficient. I was impressed by the service. The flight was a success, and I was looking forward to my trip. Hall's X-Country Team Places Thirteenth In State

The Cross Country team placed thirteenth in the State Championship Meet at Southern Baptist University in Arlington. The highest ranked member of the team was Abraham Johnson who placed sixth in the 10K.

Other meets this year were the Hinton Invitational, the LA Invitational, the Parkview Invitational and the AAAAAA State Meet.

During the season, the Cross Country team runs six days a week. Four days they run approximately three to five miles on different courses.

The team should be in the position to challenge the others next year Coach Roy Wade said.

The team has already made progress since last year moving up three positions in the state tournament ranking. Team members besides Abraham Johnson were James Murray, Greg Elliott, Conthians Johnson, Layton Johnson, Beneral Smith, Gayland Sheppard, Arthur Joyner, and I. D. McCoy.

Masem Closes Last Year As Superintendent

Mr. Paul W. Masem completed his last year as Little Rock Superintendent today when the School Board voted not to renew expired.

Masem will be replaced by Dr. Edward Kelly of Jones Park.

Masem implemented many new programs during his years as superintendent, including reading programs and the Career and Life Learning program at H.A. His work also provided quality education for about 100 students and teachers at 200 people. He was also responsible for salary raises for the school district staff.

The reason of the School Board for Masem was primarily a salary issue which was passed the Little Rock School Board.

"I believe that when serious problems without short-term solutions are faced, imbalance in the system, these are the sitters' traditions arise and there is a tendency to blame someone. The superintendent is the last victim in a system and exception I think," Mr. Masem said.

Although the split between the Board and Masem raised considerable discord, Masem said, "we are working together as much as possible for the good of the children. They are foremost in all of our minds."

Mr. Masem believed that even with the problems that the District faced, cooperative efforts among teachers and administrators, the business and educational communities and continuing community concern for public education might save the District from the decline which other urban school districts have suffered.

Tribe's Chief Comments On Closed Policy

Mr. Weldon K. Faulk, principal enforced the new policy of closed campus this year. The experimental program of open campus was eliminated after six years.

Closing campus was something that the students profited by.

Closed campus has brought the student body closer together. Mr. Faulk said. Students have improved in academics and in school spirit.

Mr. Faulk was extremely pleased with the attitudes of parents and students towards this new policy.

This was Mr. Faulk's 12th year to serve as principal. He held various positions at six other schools in the Little Rock School District. He said he believed that the past six years have been a good learning experience for everyone, but he was more satisfied with the present closed system.

Mr. Faulk was formerly principal of Jefferson and Rightsell Elementary Schools, and of West Side Junior High School. He said he preferred leading senior high students and believed it to be an extremely rewarding experience.

Another busy day Mr. Weldon K. Faulk, principal, completes some of his endless paper work.

Cabinet Links Students With Administration

The Principal's Cabinet acted as an intermediary between the administration and the students by establishing a direct mutual link.

The Cabinet consisted of the principal, the two assistant principals and the officers and sponsors of the student council.

The Cabinet gave me a chance to talk directly to the student representatives," said Mr. Faulk, principal. "I could tell them my personal views on the student body activities."

The Cabinet met monthly in Mr. Faulk's office. Felicia Webster, junior representative, said, "I think the meetings were helpful, because we could sit down and talk directly to Mr. Faulk without having to go through anyone else."

Suggestions and new ideas were presented at the meetings.

Guidance Staff Tries To Aid Every Student

Our main goal is to benefit the student by giving him vocational, personal, and social training," Mr. Sam Dace, counselor, said. This was just one of the many goals for the Guidance Department this year.

Mrs. Eloise Fitzpatrick and Mrs. Charlene Carpenter made up the rest of the Guidance Department's staff.

The main office staff consisted of Mrs. Martha Brown, the principal's secretary; and Mrs. Barbara Hope, the bookkeeper. Mrs. Mildred Bracey was the attendance secretary and Mrs. Niki Williams was a secretary in the attendance office. Mrs. Mildred Peters was the school nurse worker and Mrs. Mildred Peters was the school nurse.

Dept. Stresses Annual Tests For Students

One of the English Department's main goals this year was to better acquaint students with the Science Research Associates (SRA) tests given annually in the spring.

Last year Department Head Miss Nancy Poppertuss said Hall did very well on the tests. This year we hope to do as well or better.

Several materials were used to prepare students for SRA tests. Exercises in usage, punctuation and spelling were interspersed among daily assignments throughout the year. Juniors particularly studied vocabulary for the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test (PSAT).

The second goal of the English Department was placing added emphasis on writing. Students worked hard to improve their writing ability.

Several productions were attended by English classes this year. Many were made possible by a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities, and were presented at all three Little Rock high schools.

On October 6 the Arkansas Repertory Theater presented its "Starting Here, Starting Now" in Hall's auditorium for selected classes. Also in October English students attended a performance of the "Rache, Lampert Dancers," from New York, who were based at UALR this year.

In December several English classes attended an ART in-house production entitled "Scapino."

There were nine national merit semi-finalists this year. Hall tied with Fayetteville High for having the second highest number of semi-finalists. The majority of finalists were in honors English classes.

Dept. Offers A New Class In 1981 Year

Statistics, a new course, was added to the math department's curriculum this year. It was taught by Mrs. Florere Phipps, who returned this year from Texas A&M where she received her doctorate.

Statistics is the process of interpreting and analyzing data for the purpose of making decisions. Mrs. Phipps said, "It is necessary for people choosing a career in economics, business, education, medicine or sociology."

Seven hundred seventy-seven students, 74 per cent of the student body, were enrolled in math classes this year. Mrs. Louise Rolletson was also new in HHS math department this year. She taught Algebra I, Part I and general math.

There were nine math courses offered this year, including the new statistics class. They were functional math, general math, Statistics, Mathematics II, Algebra I and II, advanced algebra, trigonometry and calculus.

Mr. Michael Norton headed the Math Department. Other teachers in the department in addition to Dr. Phipps and Mrs. Rolletson were Mr. Charles Moseley, Mrs. Carol Burnhouse, Mr. Don Baltz and Mrs. Mary Catherine Hoage.

The Arkansas Council of Teachers of Mathematics sponsored their annual state and regional math exams in the spring and HHS students participated.

"What's her deal?" asked Charles Moseley, HHS presiding officer.

"There they go again!" Mr. Charles Moseley signed his student's report on the state.

CPR Courses Benefit Almost Every Student

Cardio Pulmonary Resuscitation (CPR) was introduced this year in the Science Department and both the biology and chemistry classes participated.

Early in the year the Red Cross sent qualified instructors to teach CPR to a group of science students. The students were given the opportunity to participate and had a good time learning the procedures.

This was the first year that the program was held and it was well received by the participants. Mrs. Catherine Hamilton, department chairman said.

Budgets were reduced this year which limited the amount of money available for the Science Department. The funding cuts also eliminated the traditional biology trip that the sophomores have taken in the past.

Mr. A. T. Bell, who taught Physics introduced his classes to the computer and used the Apple as a supplemental teaching aid. The computer was used to simulate results and calculate tables and charts which allowed more time for students to spend on experiments.

Concern about the cutting back of the woods behind Hall was shown by Mrs. Leola Norman, who taught Advanced Biology. The excessive mowing by the school department completely eliminated the new tree growth and underbrush which had been growing for several years. Advanced Biology students spent time gathering plants and made classroom observations, despite the clearing around the stately pines.

"He loves me not," Mrs. Leola Norman thinks that she has a secret admirer.

S.S. Students Receive Calls From Bethune

Students in the Social Studies Department had an opportunity to speak with one of Arkansas' congressional representatives by phone at different times during the year. Congressman Ed Bethune called at a prearranged time when an important issue came up. The students had an opportunity to ask him questions during this time.

Total enrollment in the department reached 588 this year. Students were enrolled in a variety of classes including sociology, psychology, American history, American government, and world history.

Mr. Sam Kent, the department head, said "The main goal of the year was to make all students more interested in the history of the world and of the United States."

Mrs. Marcia Lecky, Miss Mary K. Sanders, Mr. Charles Thompson, Mr. Doug Pilcher and Mrs. Martha Crosby made up the rest of the Social Studies staff. Mrs. Marjorie O'Can substituted for the first semester for Mrs. Crosby who had surgery.

Mr. Christopher Puplick, an ex-member of the Australian Parliament, visited history classes in October. Volunteers in Public Schools (VIPS) in cooperation with the State Department brought Mr. Puplick from his hometown, Sidney, to Little Rock.

Festivals Add Excitement To Lang. Classes

Language festivals were among the most popular activities that the Latin, Spanish, German and French classes attended this year. Activities such as these helped to stimulate interest in the Foreign Language classes.

The Latin classes which include first, second, and third year students were busy this year with speakers films, a banquet and outings to popular Italian restaurants. Another point of interest came up earlier in the year when a local coin collector came and exhibited Roman coins.

A full year of activities kept the Spanish classes busy from the Ballet Folklorico de Mexico in early November to the AATSP National Spanish Test in March. Other Spanish class activities included Christmas caroling, guest speakers, and a Spanish party with all the Mexican trimmings.

German students enjoyed an exciting year beginning with the Oktoberfest and continuing with the national German exam, German films and speakers and finishing with German projects which included meals, costumes and various other cultural items. Mrs. Olivia Gnggs also took her classes on a Wandertag or hiking day where the classes had a picnic and played games.

Class activities for French students included preparing French cuisine in class, taking the National French Exam, viewing cultural movies and dining at local French restaurants. French students were also visited by guest speakers who explained about French cultures and traditions.

Not only were the classes taught their respective languages but they also were able to experience some of the traditions and cultures that pertained to their language.

"Now hear this" Mrs. Olivia Gnggs instructs her German class in the language lab.

"We're the top!" The wild and crazy Latin E class scores a scolding in the Media Center.

"Five more minutes?" Mrs. Deborah Short patiently waits the end of the period.

"Say what?" Lisa Holman gossips with a few classmates in Spanish.

Shake it! Students watch a Greek dancer at the Metro Center Mall International Fest.

Enrollment Up In Journalism & Photography

Enrollment increased again this year in the Journalism Department partially due to the return to closed campus.

"Students would rather take an elective than stay in study halls all day," Mrs. Tom Christie said. "Thus we profited by the closed campus system."

Journalism I students contributed more than ever to the publication of the War Whoop this year. They received points toward their grades by performing such extra tasks as typing, selling ads, covering beats, writing news stories, conducting polls, driving to the print shop, and running errands necessary to the publication of the newspaper.

Photography classes were extremely high in enrollment during the '81-'82 school year. Students were responsible for taking, developing and printing pictures.

The War Whoop staff continued to be one of the few high school staffs in the nation to publish a weekly newspaper, despite the fact it was the only school in the city which did not have a photo typesetting system.

In the spring War Whoop staff members attended the Arkansas High School Press Association Convention where they, as usual, won Superior Awards for the material printed in the newspaper during the year.

Members of the Warrior Staff published a 288-page yearbook which was presented to the student body at an assembly in May. This was the first year that the Hurley Company was the publisher.

Hall's Journalism Department participated for the second year in the two week Urban Minority Journalism Workshop held in August at UALR. Senior Pamela Zeigler was one of 15 black students from 12 Arkansas high schools to attend the session.

Attendance At Workshops Is Aid For Dept.

Drama department classes, consisting of 150 students, participated in workshops, field trips, and tournaments throughout the year.

Mrs. Judy Trice, who has headed the division for six years, said the main goal of the department was to help students learn to successfully communicate and correctly use standard verbal English, which it felt are necessary skills for success.

Speech classes attended workshops at Parkview and McClellan high schools, and both drama and speech students attended district and state competitions. Field trips were taken by all classes in the department.

Mrs. Trice taught drama, stage management, and communications. A new teacher, Mrs. Cathy Fickert, taught dance and communications.

Drama and speech classes saw the production of Scapino by the Arkansas Repertory Theater in December and they saw the Dance Theater of Harlem and the Rachel Lampert Dance Company of New York perform.

Gordon Ward, a stage management student, was the stage manager. He represented Arkansas speech students at the Governor's office when National High School Activities Week was proclaimed in October.

Mrs. Trice and Mrs. Fickert attended the Southern Speech and Communications Association's National Convention at Hot Springs in April. This was a workshop to demonstrate new ways of teaching for drama, speech and dance teachers.

Artists Exhibit Original Work During Spring

Hall's art students entered their work in exhibits and art contests during the spring semester, including the Little Rock School Board Contest and the Young Arkansas Artists Competition at the Arkansas Arts Center.

Introduction to Art was a course which taught the basics of art such as weaving, working at the potter's wheel, making linoleum prints and molding clay. The commercial art field was studied by the Graphic Design class.

In Introduction to Painting the basics of painting were taught. An accelerated class for serious art students was Advanced Painting in which students worked with watercolors and tempera paint.

Miss Gail King and Mrs. Sarah Miller taught the art classes.

The Art Department has progressed and I had many outstanding and talented students to work with, Miss King said.

Musical Dept. Comprised Of Active Groups

HALL'S Music Department was composed of three active organizations — the band, choir and orchestra.

Mr. Merle Boyce, assisted by Mr. R. Ray Erwin, directed the marching band which performed at home football games to generate spirit in the crowd.

Kevin Dooley, senior drum major, led the 85 member band on the field. The band marched in the Arkansas Livestock Parade in October and presented a Christmas Concert along with the choir on December 17 in the auditorium. In the spring, the band participated in a festival contest and gave a concert for the student body.

Hall's choir program was divided into three sections. They were the concert choir, male chorus, and female chorus. Mr. Erwin, choir director, conducted the choirs in their fall, Christmas, spring and musical review concerts. Mr. Erwin said, "I had many exceptional students this year and the choir program is not only growing in quantity but in quality."

Hall's orchestra gained a new director, Mr. Tom McDonald, a member of the Arkansas, Memphis, and Northeast Arkansas symphonies. Although the group was small, the new director said that its small size allowed more time for individual instruction.

The Music Department offered a variety of courses to the students. These were 1st band, 2nd band, stage band, orchestra, concert choir, male chorus and female chorus.

Girl Students Dominate Men In Enrollment

Ninety-nine students, mainly girls, participated in the Home Economics program this past year. Student participation declined due to a decrease in enrollment of boys in the department.

"The main idea of Home Economics this past year was to help the students learn skills through laboratory experiences in food, clothing, housing, tidiness, consumerism, and management," Mrs. L. P. Mason, director of Home Economics, said.

Home Economic goals were to improve personal and family relationships becoming better family members and to learn to plan and prepare and serve meals effectively. Other major goals included helping students develop more skills in human relationships with emphasis on child development.

Housing Management was offered for one semester. That course revolved around selecting finances, designing, building, furnishings, decorating, managing and maintaining homes.

Home Economics I and II gave students the opportunity to gain skills in five areas of home making. Other courses offered in the department were Human Growth Development, Adult Living, and Child Development. The latter course was taught by Mrs. Lenora Dyer.

Overall, the year went quite well in the Home Economics Department. Students both male and female seemed very interested in all parts of the Home Economics programs, Mrs. Mason said.

PE Programs Present Goals For Activities

Physical Education's main goal was to develop character, knowledge of lifetime sports, a stronger body mentally and physically and deal with adversity," Physical Education instructor Mike Peterson said.

This past year was the fourth straight year Hall offered co-ed PE programs.

Some courses were more challenging than others but all courses were equal in competition, senior Anthony Williams said.

In order to participate in extra curricular activities each student had to receive a Physical Fitness Examination at the beginning of the year and maintain a grade point of 1.6 with no more than two 2's and no 3's or 4's.

Mrs. Carolyn Suter was the only female gym teacher.

All coaches taught Physical Education except Hall's newest coach Doug Picher. The coaching staff consisted of Norman Canaway, Oliver Elders, C. W. Keopple, Mike Peterson and Roy Wade.

Each class had about 70 students both male and female with two or three instructors. Students were given the opportunity at the beginning of the year to choose activities one per nine weeks or one activity per instructor. The sports available were frisbee, golf, soccer, flag football, weight training, archery, square dancing, deck tennis, basketball, football, and volleyball.

1981 Indicates Ten Years Of Work Studies

This year marked the tenth year that Hall has had six different work programs. They are Industrial Cooperative Training (ICT), Distributive Education (DE), Cooperative Office Education (COE), Coordinated Career Education (CCE), Health Occupations Education (HOE), and Career Advancement Program (CAP).

In each of the work programs students enrolled in regular class schedules and took a related course geared toward the world of work. Mrs. Marylee Watson, chairman of the Vocational Education Department, said. The students were employed in local businesses and industries for 15 or more hours per week.

Students spent half the day at school and then went to their specific job where they received on-the-job training for the development of knowledge and skills necessary for the career world.

All students enrolled in work programs participated in youth organizations geared for the development of leadership. They attended state and national leadership conferences. The organizations were Vocational Industrial Clubs of America (VICA), Distributive Education Clubs of America (DECA), Future Business Leaders of America (FBLA) and Coordinated Career Education Clubs of America (CCECA).

Two hundred fifty students were enrolled in work programs this year. Instructors for the programs included: Mr. Emanuel Brooks (CCE), Mrs. Brenda Curtis (DE), Mr. M. P. Aydelott (ICT), Mrs. Charlotte Yates (HOE), Miss Anne Looney (COE) (CAP), and Mrs. Marylee Watson Department chairman.

Over the past ten years, the department has added two new instructors and two new programs.

Business Unit Introduced In Type II Class

A new unit called Word Processing was introduced to the Typewriting II classes this year. Word Processing was one of the various courses taken by the 522 students who were enrolled in the Business Department.

Word Processing introduced students to basic machine-operating techniques, techniques for generating documents, keyboarding, editing and document distribution and retention. The class was taught by Mrs. Julie Rocker.

In addition to the new equipment added to the department for the Word Processing class, five new micro-computers were received for use in introduction to Data Processing.

To aid the department, participation in the Business Education Advisory Committee was continued. The Advisory Committee was composed of members representing the business community and the education system. The committee was established to advise and assist the Business Education Department in such areas as obtaining speakers and planning field trips. The committee was chaired by Lynn Gardner, Vice-president of First National Bank.

Other courses offered by the department were Office Machines, Simulated Office Practice, Typing I, Personal Typing, accounting, Business Law, Consumer Law, and COE Related.

The department's curriculum remained the same as in previous years except for the addition of Word Processing and the deletion of Shorthand.

The Business Department chairman was Mrs. Jane Arthurs.

Hall Ind. Arts Donates Work To Community

Students, teachers and the Little Rock community as well, benefited greatly from Hall's Industrial Arts Department this year

Pupils participated in the carpentry and building classes taught by Mr. David Patterson and completed such projects as constructing furniture, shelving, model houses and making storage buildings for those in the Hall area who needed them

In spite of funds for the Industrial Arts projects being low, students could still participate in the carpentry classes

This was thanks to the greatly appreciated contributions made by individuals and other various organizations in Little Rock," Mr. Patterson said

Mr. Jim Mathews taught mechanical and architectural drawing engineering, landscaping, machine drafting, and interior design

Early in October, Mr. Mathews attended the five-day National Business Convention in Chicago, Ill. While there he observed 530 innovative new business exhibits covering such subjects as solar energy and interior design.

Although student enrollment in the department did not increase much this year, the number of female students dramatically soared over that of previous years

Metropolitan's Courses Offer Various Skills

Metropolitan Vocational, Technical Education Center offered 20 different courses in the 1981-82 school year. Some of these were appliance repair, auto mechanics, bricklaying, electronics, food services, health and word processing.

Approximately 40 students from Hall attended Metropolitan daily, a decline in enrollment from last year. Students could attend Metropolitan either in the morning or the afternoon. They would spend half the day at Metropolitan and the other half at Hall.

Metropolitan was open to students in grades nine through 12. Many students in the Little Rock schools took advantage of the training offered at the Center.

Cindy Torres, a word processing student at Metropolitan, said, "I really enjoy Metro because I get the experience and training I need to get a job."

Students from Metropolitan operated the radio station, KLRE-FM. Its purpose was to aid teachers by broadcasting programs which were helpful in classrooms. The school print shop, located at Metropolitan, did all of the printing for the Little Rock School District, including the weekly printing of Hall's newspaper, the War Whoop.

"From their courses students will learn skills of interest and have future job opportunities," Mr. Raymond Dow, who completed his tenth year as Metropolitan's principal, said.

Metropolitan is located at Scott Hamilton Drive and I-30 in the industrial section of the city.

Mascots Chosen For '81-82 Year

The Cherokee and Pamlico served as the High School mascots for the 1981-82 school year.

The two mascots were chosen in the spring of last year. Pamlico was chosen by a vote of three girls and two boys. Cherokee was chosen by a vote of two girls and one boy. The two mascots were chosen to represent the Cherokee and Pamlico tribes.

The two mascots were expected to attend every football game and home basketball game. Their main purpose was to generate spirit for the Warriors.

Pamlico had new uniforms while Cherokee had some new uniforms and some old uniforms. The two mascots had a few problems with their uniforms during the season.

Both seemed to enjoy their role as mascots.

Being a senior, Pamlico said that the past year has been a great one for experience. Pam said that he enjoyed showing spirit for the Warriors.

Super Senior Is '82 Class Emblem

This year at Hall a big 'S' on a t-shirt did not mean Superman, but Super Seniors. This became the sign of the Class of '82.

The varsity cheerleaders sold the shirts at the beginning of the year and generated a lot of class spirit.

During football season, caravans could be seen going to most every game. The seniors could also be seen waving the class flag throughout the game. Seniors should have school spirit because it puts them together and it's fun. Senior Robin Gordon said.

At every game a group of senior boys tried to form a pyramid, and they usually ended up in a pile in the middle of the field. The Savage Squaws, a group of spirited senior girls, attended every game in their orange and white t-shirts.

At pep assemblies, the front of the auditorium was always full of seniors chanting, 'We're the best, you know it's true, we're the class of '82.'

Cheer up! Scott Taylor takes Aerobics as she passes him on the way to class.

That Super Senior Smile! Kent Holt's reflexes between classes in the courtyard.

Senior Class Faces Big Decision

As the seniors high school days came to a close they had to decide what they would do after graduation.

One of the biggest decisions was whether one would stay in state or travel across the country to obtain an education. To make the right choice seniors sought help from the respective counselors. Also they visited with various college representatives who came to Hall periodically throughout the year. The opportunity to visit with the representatives gave each student the feeling that the colleges and universities had a personal interest in them. Representatives from such institutions of learning as Harvard, Columbia, Duke, University of Arkansas, and Grambling University were among those who visited Hall during the year.

Junior Participation Not "Middle"

When it comes to the junior year, it is the middle of the high school experience. However, the junior year is not just a time to relax and enjoy the ride. It is a time to prepare for the future and to make the most of the opportunities available.

One of the most important things that juniors can do is to get involved in extracurricular activities. This can help them to develop leadership skills, to build self-confidence, and to make friends who share similar interests.

Another important thing that juniors can do is to take advantage of the resources available at their school. This includes using the library, attending workshops, and participating in field trips. These activities can help juniors to gain a better understanding of the world around them and to prepare for the future.

The junior year is a time of great opportunity. It is a time when juniors can make the most of the resources available at their school and when they can begin to prepare for the future. By getting involved in extracurricular activities and by taking advantage of the resources available at their school, juniors can make the most of their junior year and prepare for the future.

Ten other juniors also served on Student Council, which sponsored many school activities during the year.

Juniors received numerous awards in a variety of areas. Awards were earned by juniors at language festivals, speech contests, tournaments and conventions. During the summer, junior girls and boys participated in the Governor's School and in Girls' State and Boys' State.

Juniors Show Spirit Consecutively

The juniors consistently showed a high level of spirit throughout the year.

The junior spirit was tremendous during pep assemblies when the juniors were the best there'll ever be. We're the class of '83" was chanted.

The juniors promoted basketball and basketball season.

The juniors followed the precedents of spirit set by previous junior classes. Their dedication was evident during assemblies and games of sports clubs and various school sponsored activities.

Juniors held offices and chaired committees in a number of clubs.

Junior spirit mounted near the end of the year as the class anticipated their long-awaited senior year. As incoming seniors, a tremendous amount of junior spirit was sparked by the arrival of senior rings and during the last few weeks of school class meetings.

This year has been fun and exciting for me," junior Tracy Hollingsworth said, "especially during the football season.

Many juniors participated in spirit-promoting activities such as sports and junior varsity cheering. The traditional orange and white colors adorned a large number of juniors on game days.

Juniors also showed their support for their school by purchasing many spirit ribbons, buttons and hats.

"Stop looking at me." When the juniors break between classes at the school.

"Wow!" When the juniors make a touch with their message.

Juniors Take Standardized Tests

[illegible]

The junior year will be the first register for the American College Test ACT. Like the SAT the ACT is a requirement for some colleges and universities. A few seniors took the ACT in April but the majority will be administered the test their senior year.

For seniors who had not previously taken it, the Armed Services Vocational Aptitude Battery (ASVAB) was given March 1. ASVAB measures the students' aptitude in five career field areas and provides an indication of their academic ability. ASVAB is a means of stimulating interest in military occupations.

The PSAT, ASVAB and ACT were national tests administered to high school students throughout the country.

The PSAT test was fairly difficult and rather long, junior Susan Hanson said. "But it helped me get ready for the SAT next year."

Sophomores Experience Changes

Sophomores coming from junior high school to this experienced many changes. For the first time many sophomores considered grades important and the classes chosen by the sophomores would play an important role in the future.

The sophomores were introduced to taking many responsibilities, testing by the upper classes. By Christmas break however, the sophomores had almost stopped and sophomores truly began to be considered part of the student body. As they began to feel more a part of H.S., sophomores became more involved in extracurricular activities.

Sophomore involvement was seen in all the clubs, perhaps because the sophomores could not live, and therefore could not go out. Sophomore elections were held in September and all sophomores were elected to Student Council. Jack Strawn as sophomore representative coordinated the representation of the sophomores in Student Council.

Eventually spring roles began and the sophomores began turning 16 one by one. This increased the cars in the student parking lot and parking spaces were few and hard to come by.

Dating was another change experienced by the sophomores. In junior high school the sophomores had been forced to rely on their parents for transportation while on a date. Consequently there were few dates in junior high school.

What's the answer? Sophomore Karen Richards struggles with the homework.

Slops Continue To Be Harassed

Harassment and the lack of safety policies continued this year.

Sophomores were announced at the registration and the safety of the school was a priority. A few more sophomores were announced in the gym and the safety of the school was a priority.

Sophomores were met at the first meeting with the principal, the safety of the school was a priority. The principal, the safety of the school was a priority. The principal, the safety of the school was a priority.

Sophomores at this year were not allowed to rock the Bury, Cattle as much as previous years. Last year the administration determined that the bakery was a hazard. This year teachers were posted in the Cattle to prevent this.

Over the year's even interest by the juniors and seniors was not as high as in previous years.

"Where's the parking deck?" Sophomore Bryan Harris missed the bus and had to walk.

Class Required For Sophomores

For the first time this year, sophomores were required to take Career and Life Planning for credit. The class was only offered as a semester course, so many sophomores chose to take it over the remainder of their sophomore year.

Unlike last year when the course was taught during lunch, this year it was offered at various times during the day. Sophomores seemed to receive the program without as much criticism as last year.

Career and Life Planning will help me get a job and train people to work at simple jobs," Owen Gizette said.

It's not that bad," Corn Johnson added. "I might need to get a job."

Students were taught to fill out job applications, write resumes, and prepare for job interviews. They also wrote research papers concerning their choice of careers.

One valuable and practical skill learned in the class was how to fill out both state and federal income tax forms. This enabled students to enter the work force better able to handle their business affairs.

Teachers in various subject areas taught the course. Also outside speakers and resource persons from all over the city were used to enrich the course.

Other courses which made up the sophomore curriculum included biology, mathematics, and English, plus two elective courses. Favorite electives were languages, specifically French, Spanish, and Latin.

"Oh Yeah?" Ake Freeman stops at his locker between classes.

Group Living Is For Youngsters

Twenty-two children were enrolled in kindergarten this year.

The basic rules for living which are stressed in the laws of society were introduced to the children. Mrs. Virginia Minor, the director of the Child Development Center.

Group living is what is the primary purpose of the mission were stressed very important and emphasis was placed on listening to those who were speaking.

By the end of the year children were responsible for their parts of the alphabet and in order starting to read with letters and words on cards. A new math guide was used this year which contained a collection of goals to achieve and included a skills test for the end of the year.

For recreation the children played outdoors on the swings and slides. They went to the Medical Center every Wednesday for story time where volunteers from the drama classes read to them. Time was also allowed every week for the children to check out library books.

During the Christmas season the class went to the Williamsburg Nursing Home and sang carols. They also performed a Christmas program for their parents on December 18.

To The Reader,

Many efforts were made throughout the school year to improve and modernize the 1982 WARRIOR. My thanks go to all those who devoted their time and effort to the publication of this issue.

A special thanks goes to Brad Smithers for his time, attention, developing, and printing pictures for the WARRIOR. And for coming through to help me when I needed it the most.

I am grateful to Mr. MacArthur for his devotion and responsibility, for always doing what he thought was right, for keeping my eyes on the prize, for always getting things done, and for giving me the opportunity to be editor of this publication. It has truly been an unforgettable experience.

Marilyn Lucas
WARRIOR editor

The 1982 WARRIOR was published by The Hurley Company of Camden, Arkansas. Mr. Kevin MacArthur was the firm's representative. The 9x12 book was printed on Dull Enamel 80 pound paper. Body copy was set in 10 point Memphis Light. Captions and identification blocks were set in 8 point Memphis Light. The index was set in 9 point Memphis Medium. Headlines were set in 32 point Souvenir Bold, 28 point Memphis Extra Bold and 24 point Memphis Medium. TWENTY-FIVE YEARS OF EXCELLENCE was selected as the theme. It appears on the cover and throughout the opening and closing. The opening pages use process ink and process color. In the opening the color was Process blue; on the Division pages the color was Pantone 201 (burgundy); and in athletics the color was Pantone 151 (orange).

In Memory Of

Reginald "Boya" Pitts

This page was purchased by members of the student body in memory of their classmate Reginald Pitts

In Dedication To A Lovely Son

To know him is to love him." Oh how true, the very expression describes Reggie for he was loving, kind and considerate to all, he extended a helping hand to whoever would call and he adored all children.

Reggie, "Boya," as everyone affectionately would call him, would cheerfully greet you with a smile. He was faithful and humorous in his own loving way, but stood steadfast to whatever he would say. He had many friends and was always ready to do something for Mother, Grandmother and other relatives.

We adored him and loved him with all our hearts. These are the words and phrases frequently spoken when one's last sleep has been taken, but to have these words echoed daily in your ones, let me say unique.

Thank you God for Reggie. Sleep on son, we love you but God loves you best.
Love always, Family

King Of Kings

Reginald Bernard Pitts, nicknamed "Boya," a storm in who gives away for the sake of God, who fears God alone and believes in goodness. We will indeed make smooth for him the way to bliss.

My beloved son paid his own way to glory, the road leads back home. Someday, someplace and in another period in time we shall meet again. Oh my God (Allah); I know your taste is of your choice.

O Allah, originator of the heavens and the earth, knower of the seen and unseen. Thou judgest between thy servants as to that wherein they differ. Holy Quran 39:46. Even though your choosing was choice and I am most hurt, I do understand that you need kings above as well as below.

His last name — Charles Edward Pitts
His school — Boy's in my school days
As the Name — Abu Bakr

This page was purchased by the parents of Reginald Bernard Pitts. The two selections were written by his parents Mrs. Jean Banks and Mr. Charles E. Pitts in memory of their son who was killed in a car-trail collision on November 13, 1981.)

25 Years Of Excellence

Progression

The past 25 years have been a journey of growth and progress. We have seen the school grow from a small, one-room schoolhouse to a large, modern educational institution. This progression is a testament to the dedication and hard work of our faculty, staff, and students.

Our commitment to excellence has led us to achieve numerous accolades and awards. We have been recognized for our academic achievements, our commitment to community service, and our dedication to providing a high-quality education for all students.

As we look back on our 25th anniversary, we are proud of the progress we have made and the achievements we have accomplished. We are committed to continuing our tradition of excellence and to providing a high-quality education for all students in the future.

Traditions

The spirit of Hillcrest is the perpetuation of traditions that have been passed down from generation to generation.

Although these traditions are not always strictly followed, they are a part of the school's identity and are a source of pride for the students.

For Hillcrest, traditions are a part of the school's identity and are a source of pride for the students. They are a part of the school's history and are a source of pride for the students.

will drive when the ground on their side and the new way of thinking is the only way to get things done.

Traditions at Hillcrest are a part of the school's identity and are a source of pride for the students. They are a part of the school's history and are a source of pride for the students.

These traditions will be in our hearts and minds for many years to come. They are a part of the school's identity and are a source of pride for the students.
